

It has already reached that point where I don't trust American news anymore - is it really news or an ad for the parent corporation's latest product? Or reportage that is slanted towards corporate interests. We no longer have a truly free press.